2. Credentials

The journey that began in 2013 as a military diver has been one of constant growth, challenges, and rewards. Through five years of intense training and diverse operations, I honed my skills, faced the unknown depths, and gained the trust of my teammates. From foundational roles as Dive Experience Leader and Rescue Diver, to advanced qualifications as a Divemaster, every certification and operation deepened my understanding and respect for the ocean's power and for the responsibilities I carried as a diver.

Each step forward brought new challenges, like the nerve-testing night dives and wreck explorations that demanded absolute focus and control. In time, these skills became second nature, and I took pride in passing them on to new divers, guiding them through the essentials with an instructor's patience and a leader's insight. Over the years, I've had the privilege to work on complex missions, from covert reconnaissance to supporting explosive ordnance disposal (EOD) teams, each operation reinforcing the discipline, courage, and adaptability required in military diving.

Then, in 2023, a decade after I first entered the water as a military diver, I achieved a milestone that brought my journey full circle, I became a certified Open Water Diver Instructor. Now, as an instructor, I am honored to guide the next generation of divers, imparting not only technical skills but also the values and resilience that have defined my own diving career. From student to leader, and finally to instructor, this journey has been one of transformation, and I am committed to sharing these experiences, ensuring that every diver I train carries forward the same respect, discipline, and passion for the deep that have guided me all these years.
